

Contents

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction 1

[1]

Tomorrow You Will Go to the Polls:
Women's Voting in Chicago in 1894 20

[2]

Because Her Parents Had Never Had the Chance:
Southern Migrant Politics during the 1910s 60

[3]

Profit from the Mistakes of Men:
National Party Politics, 1920–1924 108

[4]

The Prohibition Issue as a Smoke Screen:
The Failure of Racial Uplift Ideology and the 1928 Election 149

[5]

Political Recognition for Themselves and Their Daughters:
The Campaigns of Ruth Hanna McCormick, 1927–1930 185

Conclusion 228

Notes 241

Bibliography 299

Index 321